

Season 2, Episode 17: Lockdown (get it ! Locke Down ! HA HA HA HA HA !)

Okay, this one is going to be a little long.
I'm sure we all say the map on the blast doors.
Well, the map may take a book worth of info to translate.
Holy crap.
I shall do my best and gather all the info I can find.

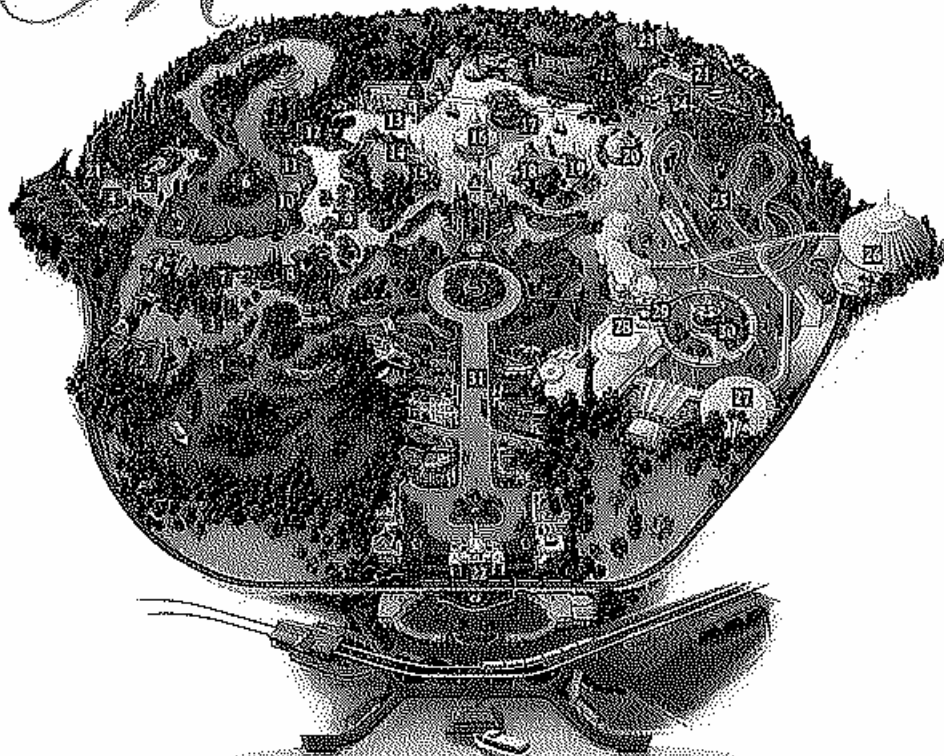

1. The map on the back of the blast door:

Obviously someone's handwritten map of the Island. From the looks of it, another castaway who was desperately trying to map out (and figure out) the island. We know we are in the Swan hatch, and we know of 2 other hatches. The crazy OBGYN hatch and the Tailles (tail ends) hatch.

Which hatches are which is up to you to decide, as is all the markings in English. (Although my guess is that the OBGYN hatch is at 10:00 on the map. I translated the Latin for you below. Thanks Google !!

Magic Kingdom Park

The numbers:

Square root of 16, 64, 225 are the magic numbers 4 8 and 15. The magic numbers. They are also just written on the map.

108 (the sum of all the numbers) is also written on it.

The Latin

Sursum Corda (written three times above) : Latin for 'lift up your hearts' aegrescit medendo is translated to 'the treatment is worse than the disease.'

malum consilium quod mutari non potest "It's a bad plan that can't be changed"

cogito ergo doleo 'I think therefore I'm depressed'

Hic Sunt Dracones (all of us Dungeons and Dragon nerds know this one.) "Here there be Dragons" Written on many old maps too.

Credo nos en flucto eodem esse "I think we are on the same wavelength" ut sit magna tamen certe lenta ira deorum est "The wrath of the gods may be great, but it certainly is slow"

Obviously there are a million theories with the map. I'll let you all make your own.

On to the other stuff now:

Henry Gale sure didn't seem to have any problem remembering the numbers.

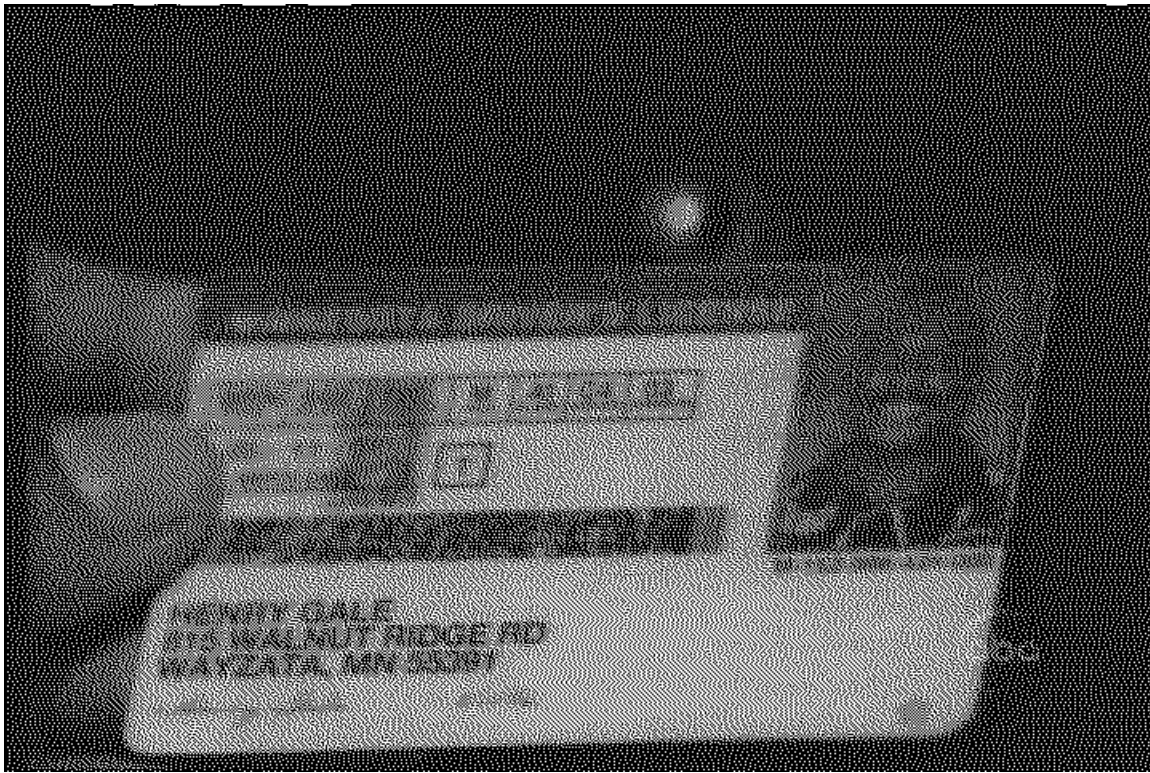

The big theory on the boards is that the lockdown happens so whoever is manning the hatch can go out and get fresh supplies. Kind of like, 'We'll take care of things here, while you go get the supply drop. The only words you could hear out of the speaker were 'please proceed to... crackle crackle...'

Probably telling the poor button pushers that their re-supplies have arrived.

Those were two Oceanic planes flying over the hotel.

The "REAL" Henry Gale lives at 815 (8 15) Walnut Ridge

This is the only screen shot I have, but some people claim to have a better one with the expiration date visible. Expires in 1996. If that's true, then Henry has been here for 2 or 3 years.

NADIA ! Lock did the inspection on Nadia's home. That is Sayid's lost love. That's why Sayid was coming to the US... to find her.

Why the hell did they try to open the door in the first place if you could just crawl through the ventilation ? I guess we will just have to believe that Locke was too big to fit in them?

Can't seem to find the music Locke was playing anywhere. I think I am beat for the first time here. Sorry. If I find out, I will update this.

Best Line:

Kate: "Should I get a ruler?"

Numbers:

The card game

Driver's license

So after searching the web a little more, I found that somebody already put together the map better than any screenshots ever could.

Have fun !!!

LOST'S LATEST SECRET

On the March 29 episode, a new mystery entered the Lost lexicon: the Map. Blurry as heck and visible for just a split second, it was the show's biggest Tivo moment yet. We got it from the producers—and decode it for you, as best we can. BY JEFF JENSEN
